Dear Sir or Madam,

I noted with alarm that you are requesting "...last four digits of social security number if available," followed by the statement that "please be aware that all documents will be made available to the public"

So, when you call the bank, do they ask for your full social or just the last 4? So if someone wanted access to my bank account information, the address, full name, dob and last four social is EXACTLY what they would need. You will open up the entire voting population to a massive amount of fraud if this data is in any way released. Please do NOT release this information.

Best regards,

you are all about voter suppression to rig elections. you are evil. pray there is no hell.

"I don't want everybody to vote...As a matter of fact, our leverage in the elections quite candidly goes up as the voting populace goes down" — conservative activist Paul Weyrich, August 1980

After the election, former Florida GOP chairman Jim Greer told The Palm Beach Post that the explicit goal of the state's voter-ID law was Democratic suppression. "The Republican Party, the strategists, the consultants, they firmly believe that early voting is bad for Republican Party candidates," Greer told the Post. "It's done for one reason and one reason only ... 'We've got to cut down on early voting because early voting is not good for us,'" he said.

Last spring, for example, Pennsylvania House Majority Leader Mike Turzai told a gathering of Republicans that their voter identification law would "allow Governor Romney to win the state of Pennsylvania."

"I'm going to be real honest with you" Tea Party leader Ken Emanuelson said at a Dallas County Republican Party event on May 20. "The Republican Party doesn't want black people to vote if they are going to vote 9-to-1 for Democrats."

A News21 analysis of 2,068 alleged election-fraud cases since 2000 shows that while fraud has occurred, the rate is infinitesimal, and in-person voter impersonation on Election Day, which prompted 37 state legislatures to enact or consider tough voter ID laws, is virtually non-existent.

In an exhaustive public records search, News21 reporters sent thousands of requests to elections officers in all 50 states, asking for every case of fraudulent activity including registration fraud, absentee ballot fraud, vote buying, false election counts, campaign fraud, casting an ineligible vote, voting twice, voter impersonation fraud and intimidation.

Analysis of the resulting comprehensive News21 election fraud database turned up 10 cases of voter impersonation. With 146 million registered voters in the United States during that time, those 10 cases represent one out of about every 15 million prospective voters.

On July 29 the Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, long considered one of the most conservative of the Circuit courts, struck down North Carolina's voter-ID law, one of the strictest in the nation.

The judges found that the provisions "target African Americans with almost surgical precision."

I'm glad you asked for the opinion of the American public. Here's my two cents:

- 1) Voting districts need to be drawn up by a non-partisan state committee in order to stop gerrymandering.
- 2) Our government is supposed to be of the people, by the people, for the people. Corporations are NOT "people" as envisioned by our founding fathers. Ergo, the Citizens United decision needs to be reversed in order to get corporate money out of our politics.
- 3) We need open primaries so that we can all vote for who we feel is the best candidate.
- 4) The electoral college is an outdated dinosaur of a system and needs to be abolished. Whoever gets the majority of the vote needs to be in office, not the loser, and unfortunately we've been stuck twice now in my lifetime with the loser.
- 5) Stop the voter roll purges.
- 6) Make election day a holiday so that everyone can vote. There were a few times when I was working two-three jobs when I didn't have time to go vote.
- 7) Stop charging exorbitant fees for identification cards. When you only have $5 to feed yourself and your child for a week you can't afford to pay $150 for a voter id card!

Sincerely,
L. Adams

Dear Mr. Kobach,

I am not a Secretary of State, but as a citizen, I am very concerned about the "...laws, rules, policies, activities, strategies, and practices that...undermine the American people's confidence in the integrity of..." elections in general. For your information, I am a white senior citizen, native-born American, and retired educator with a daughter retired from the military after 20 years of service, one an elementary school teacher, and two adult children in the computer industry. I am not a violent radical, just a humane Christian who believes in honesty, integrity, and kindness.

One practice of Republicans is to gerrymander districts in order to guarantee their continued selection over the will of the possible opposing majority of the citizens of their state.

Investigation into the last presidential election found almost no illegal ballots. They also found that most of the questionable behavior was committed by avid Republican supporters, such as: going to the polls with open carry weapons, filling out mail-in ballots for people by recommending only the Republican candidates, and closing polling places while people were still in line to vote, to name a few.

Another practice by our Republican president, that no Republican in any level of government has sought to censure, refute, or rein-in, as far as I can see, is the constant refrain that our elections are easily rigged. Consider, if that were true, then the only reason Trump won was because he and the Republican party cheated.

I will only trust your committee if it is truly bi-partisan and is clearly trying to get the vote to every single citizen of this country - not just the safe Republican supporters.

Kris Kobach Vice Chair

Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity

Dear Sir,

Since you asked, here are a few reasons my confidence in the integrity of our election process has been undermined for some years.

When Republicans conspire to deprive voters of their right to vote just because their name matches the name of another citizen in another state 500 or 1000 miles away, it looks politically and ethnically motivated. Perhaps you've noticed that some hispanic names are more often represented for historical, cultural or linguistic reasons. I know a man named Antonio Romero. I bet you could find several in every state in the country. Did you remove any John Smiths or James Andersons from voter roles? Did you remove any Lois Jones or Emma Browns from the roles? No? I thought not. Yet, the phenomenon of people double registered - registered in more than one place - is documented. Perhaps you heard - Jared Kushner, Steven Bannon, and other members of the current administration are/were registered in more than one state. I heard no uproar about voter fraud from you and your party about that!

Did you give those with "duplicate" names a fair chance to show that they were a legitimate citizen/voter? I read that you didn't even verify middle names so you could remove Antonio Juan Romero AND Antonio Jose Romero with no further investigation. Did you remove them from roles of registered voters without notice, leaving the voter to find out at the polls that they no longer could vote?

When a black senior citizen who has lived in the same community all her life, now has to prove her identity despite living in a corner of her community where paperwork wasn't common when she was born in 1922 or 1932. How will she find a birth certificate? Now that she is living in a adult assisted living facility how will she have the money to get the documentation? Now that Mississippi, among others, have closed Departments of Motor Vehicles all over the state (particularly in the parts of the state where blacks live in larger numbers), how will she get to a DMV to register? How will she pay for the birth certificate? How will she pay for all the other documents? You know she doesn't drive. Fear not Republicans! Buy a gun and that is sufficient documentation to be registered in Texas!

How can I have confidence in the electoral process in this country when major Republican figures own the companies that manufacture the voting systems? How can I have confidence in the electoral system when Diebold and the rest claim the privilege of industrial secrecy and proprietary rights to avoid sharing the methods used to count the results or have the methods and results verified by an unbiased auditor? How can I have confidence in the results in the electoral process when there is no paper trail? How can I have confidence in the results in the electoral process when the systems have been shown to be easily hackable, yet independent verification is denied citing industrial secrets?

How can I have confidence in our elections when the richest 0.1% of citizens can influence the outcome with a out-sized monetary contribution to the winner? What favors are expected in return?

How can I have confidence in our elections when gerrymandering is pervasive? When the percentage of Republican voters in a recent election in Pennsylvania was less than 50%, yet 13 out of 18 districts sent a Republican Representative to Washington, I no longer have any confidence in the electoral process. When a Republican state representative in Pennsylvania is filmed bragging about "voter registration (suppression) to elect Romney, Done!", how can I have confidence in the integrity of the electoral system?

When the country's founding relic, and original sin, of slavery is the reason for the Electoral College, and three million more people voted for the Democrat than for the Republican, how can I have confidence in the electoral system seeing the Republican contestant in the White House?

No, I have no confidence in our electoral system and what Republicans in state houses and at federal level (Supreme Court, Department of Justice, and more) are doing is making me less confident by the day!

Thank you for the opportunity to give feedback.

If you want to ensure integrity of our elections, you would be better served investigating voter suppression laws and other efforts across this country, which have been documented to deny basic right and ability to vote for thousands of people, than in investigating voter fraud which has fewer than 100 documented fraudulent votes in the last presidential election. I encourage you to focus on making it easier for our citizens to register and increase access for them to vote, than work to solve an issue (voter fraud) with no evidence exists in any meaningful fashion. And I encourage you to consider solutions such as automatic voter registration to enable the country to truly be representative of the world's greatest democracy that we claim to be.

Dear Lt. Governor Guadagno,

Media reports today have revealed that Kris Kobach, Vice Chair of the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity, has sent letters to the Secretary of State in all fifty states requesting that “all available voter roll data” including “full first and last names of all registrants, middle name or initials if available, addresses, dates of birth, political party, [...] last four digits of social security number, voter history (elections voted in) from 2006 onward”, among other information. The letter also states that any information provided to the Commission is to be made public.

This request is very concerning. The federal government is attempting to get the name, address, birth date, political party, and social security number of every voter in the country. This appears to be a significant overreach by the federal government into state voter registration matters. The signer of the letter, Kris Kobach, has made several unsubstantiated claims that large numbers of undocumented immigrants voted in the recent elections.

I strongly oppose any participation in this request by New Jersey. I urge you to decline and not hand over any voter registration data for this or any similar requests.

I know you are looking for ideas from the public on ways to “undermine the American people’s confidence in the integrity of the federal election process.” Your panel sounds like a good way to start. Frankly, I think we could learn a lot from how other countries do that. Poll taxes, complex constitutional law tests, or simply whittling down a few voters here and there may not always work—what you need is to let anyone vote, but then you do the counting. It has worked every time in Zimbabwe and elsewhere. And, I’m sure that President Trump picked up a few pointers on elections when he visited Saudi Arabia, like there’s no need for an election to be king. I am concerned that, as President Trump told us (and the media would not), 3 to 5 million illegals voted last year, and I am afraid they will do so again on America’s Got Talent.

Dear Mr. Kobach,

I hope you will consider my input as an American citizen as you gather input from various Secretaries of State in our great nation. I am indeed concerned about the integrity of federal elections; here are my reasons:

1. Voter ID laws designed to make it difficult for elderly, low-income and minority voters to vote.
2. Gerrymandering by state legislatures which tends to favor one party over another (most of these gerrymandered states are in Republican-majority states).
3. Electronic voting machines which are potentially vulnerable to attack by a foreign state or other entity; paper ballots would go a long way to boosting my confidence in our voting system.
4. An electoral college in which individual votes are not weighed equally (Wyoming voters get more weight than voters in Texas or California) and in which a candidate can be elected without receiving the majority of the popular vote.
5. Did I mention the voter ID laws? How many documented cases of voter fraud have there been? And how many people (mostly elderly, low income, minorities, etc.---mainly Democratic voters) have been turned away from the polls by these oppressive laws?
6. Super PACs. Our elections have become a farce. The people do not run this country---the special interests do. Overturn Citizens United and I might have a little more faith in our election process.
7. In short, my faith in the integrity of Federal election processes and, by extension, our very democracy, is thrown into question by corporate-funded politicians such as yourself who seem to be so vehemently opposed to giving all people an equal voice by passing egregious laws to suppress the vote in the name of the essentially non-existent threat of voter fraud.

I hope you will consider my comments, and I hope the people will one day take our democracy back from corporate special interests in the interest of true public service for the sake of the betterment of all---not for the just for betterment of the wealthy.

We need to get some REAL integrity vs. Kris Koback's fevered dreams of multitudes of brown people coming for our votes. Not enough people are involved in the electoral process right now. You seem only interested in keeping poor, minority voters from getting to the ballot boxes and in solving a non-existent problem. We have real problems in our country, and this is not one of them.

Mr. Kobach--

You have asked for opinions on what makes me and others question the integrity of our electoral process. Here are mine:

1. Way too much money in the political system, thanks to Citizens United; our system is mere fraud, and to cleanse it all campaigns for the House, Senate and President should be publicly financed.
2. I'm a conservative at heart and I completely, distrust Trump and his motives. This "investigation" seems to be his need to counteract the actual fact that he lost the popular vote.
3. Republicans, and you, Sir, tout the need for integrity of our elections, but where is your's or your party's proposal to spend money to upgrade the country's voting apparatus to prevent hacks and provide a paper receipt to each voter?
4. Gerrymandering by both parties undermines fair elections and the "one man, one vote" principle. The process must be taken out of the hands of the parties and placed under the responsibility of non-partisan committees in each state.
5. Multiple studies have show that voter fraud is extremely rare. months ago, North Carolina election officials announced that perhaps one or two instances of attempted voter fraud occurred in about 4.8 million votes cast. This investigation, and your recent $1000 fine for voter shenanigans, call into question this entire project and undermines my confidence that future elections will be above board.

This is about voter suppression and everyone knows it. If Secretary Rosado of New York gives you my or any other NY state resident's information, then she's a sap who I will work very hard to get removed from her office before she gives a Nigerian prince my state's treasury.

I mean, are you really this lazy? You want to disenfranchise voters do your own grunt work.

Dear Commissioners:

I am concerned about the integrity of our elections.

The intelligence community's discovery of hacking into state and local election boards is frightening and the ultimate threat to democracy. Foreign actors must be prevented from interfering in our elections.

I think one way to help insure confidence in our elections is to provide local boards with assistance with computer security. The federal government needs to provide funds and guidance to local boards so that they can stay up to date with the latest technology to prevent intrusions. A paper trail should be required so that if there are any questions about voting fraud the results can be checked.

In addition, great care must be taken to make sure that hackers aren't able to purge voters from the rolls. That is as great a danger as the ability to tamper with votes.

I hope you will focus on these concerns.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

I have worked 35 years in the IT business and I know bad data system design when I see it.

A "voter integrity" system that purges voters without notification is corrupt.

A "voter Integrity" system that purges more than one voter based on a single name is corrupt. You can't purge 10 people named "jose Rodriguez" because one of them committed a felony.

A "voter integrity" system that won't give a live voter who shows up at the polls a provisional ballot is corrupt. An error in YOUR database should not disenfranchise an American citizen.

In this century the number of people prevented from voting can be counted in the 100s of thousands - the number of voter fraud cases can be counts in the 100s. And it is so strange that the majority of people suppressed are Democrats and so many of the people committing fraud are Republicans. Ironical even.

The person reading this email should be ashamed to be supporting this effort.

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

Many of us are very concerned about possible ALASKA voter fraud in the 2018 elections along with other levels of corruption reflected by maintaining a dysfunctional and isolated capital in Juneau here in Alaska; And many of us Alaskans' think we may need an outside law firm to represent our case.

Please accept this Forwarded Email with some of my written views on the "Capital Move to Anchorage" issue.

I have various views and positions outside of what i am sending you folks.. But PLEASE VIEW THE #1 EVERYTHING IS ON THE TABLE POWER POINT PRESENTATION..

(keep in mind this was a rush and compressed effort to begin to outline or form up some discussions relevant to the "move the capital to Anchorage ASAP issue")

In closing,

Can you please email me a verification of receipt of this email ? (Thank you)
and

If I may, in not being able to present my case personally to you folks earlier,

I hope you see the "historic and public good magnitudes" of this event request,,

I truly believe the history of this long overdue, imperative, and provable need of

"Move the Capital to Anchorage" is an
"in the best interest of Alaskans as a whole" action, (a state constitutional mandate)
and

the requested Capitals' relocation validity is in itself simply overwhelming and undeniable from many, many and many (in not all) reasons/viewpoints. -----

"The 300 mile Blue Line Corridor" alone makes this common sense case on its face ! (see google map slides "Homer to Willow directions overlay" on entire state view,, showing all of Alaska and Anchorage/Juneau locations) -- pauldkendall

Dear sir or madam:

In your recent requests to state election officials, you have asked for "... the publicly available voter roll data ...", including, if publicly available under the laws of your state, the full first and last names of all registrants, middle names or initials if available, addresses, dates of birth, political party (if recorded in your state), last four digits of social security number if available, voter history (elections voted in) from 2006 onward, active/inactive status, cancelled status, information regarding any felony convictions, information regarding voter registration in another state, information regarding military status, and overseas citizen information.

1. So you are effectively compiling a national data set with extensive personal identifying information of great use for identity thieves, once your data set is compromised, as it almost certainly will be.

2. I OPT OUT. Please remove me from any data sets collected, notably from Colorado, California, and Utah data sets (states where I have lived since 2006).

And by the way, a Presidential Advisory Commission on Electoral Integrity set up by Trump? By a serial sexual predator, who took office only with Russian help, the largest tax evader in the country, a coward who dodged military service five times? You should all be ashamed of yourselves for taking a paycheck from Trump or his minions. Get some backbone and scruples and resign.

Finally, as a senior software engineer who has worked on computer security issues, this is a really bad idea. I will be communicating with professional organizations in my field about this right away.

Sincerely,

Martin Buchanan

I am extremely concerned that our voting system has no way to check if something has been hacked or changed. In Georgia, there are no paper ballots, and no way to doublecheck votes to see if the machines or the computers have been compromised.

This is my major concern as an American voter! I hope that your commission will address this vulnerability.

Sincerely,
Christine Dillon

Mr. Koblach,

You are fooling absolutely no one. Your efforts to make voting more difficult for minorities, poor, the young and the old will fail. You're going the wrong direction, in an e-world, making it harder and harder for people to vote. We understand, though. You represent ideas that are getting old and dying, therefore you need to keep the voting blocs smaller and smaller.

Here is my concern regarding voting integrity:

- = A president who doesn't care that Russians tampered with our vote and is likely susceptible to blackmails.
- A party that is shameless in its continues re-districting and gerrymandering down to a block, whether in North Carolina, Texas, or the other "notables," you're doing all you can, as cynically as you can, to ensure an inflated Republican vote.
- An electoral college system that is so outdated that only once in last 5 elections has a Republican president actually won the popular vote (and I'm overlooking strange happenings in Pennsylvania).
- The ties between corporate money and political donations, it's no longer one person one vote, it's one-thousand dollars per vote.

So, those are my primary concerns. Not that I'm fulling myself. I know exactly what you're doing and so do all too many others. You're cynical and selling out a country that is too good for the plans you have for it.

Dear Sirs,

May I suggest that you request from the 50 secretaries of state the following information as well:

Race

Then you can delete all minority voters who are not registered Republican or White Power Party. I think that is what Mr. Kobach would want. Worked ok in Kansas, so well, that he got the KIng of Voter Suppression award.

You all are a smokescreen or a distraction. Voting is a constitutional right. Sadly not enough people do it, some are discouraged by your kind of thugs.

Thank you for asking for comments about the work of the Presidential Election Commission. Here's what I suggest...I think the first job would be to support efforts underway to find out if any people involved in the Trump campaign were complicit in the Russian intrusion into our last election. After that, here are some of my concerns which I hope your commission will address: investigate and report back to the public of various state's actions to suppress voting in low income and minority communities; look into the effects of the Citizen's United decision and money in politics; address the effects of gutting the Voting Rights Act; take steps to stop states from purging voter rolls without due process; get Congress or the President to strengthen the FEC; advise how we can get rid of our antiquated electoral college system; and figure out how we can get rid of gerrymandering.

Yes, that's a lot to do, but our democracy is in trouble, under threat and as patriotic, concerned citizens we...and you, need to address these issues.

I am writing in response to your call for Americans' views on ways to preserve the integrity of federal elections. My first suggestion is to thoroughly investigate the voting infrastructure in every state with a view to determining the degree to which enemy Russian operatives were able to compromise it and the possible methods by which we can protect it from the future attacks our intelligence agencies assure us are coming.

Second, since the integrity of the voting process is most robust when it reflects most fully the will of the electorate, I suggest you explore ways to ease and expand voter participation in our elections, thereby maximizing the expression of the popular will. This might be effected, for example, by making Election Day a national holiday or scheduling it on a weekend and by making voter registration automatic.

As you know, of the hundreds of millions of votes cast in this country in the decade ending in 2010, a statistically insignificant number were successfully prosecuted as fraudulent. Therefore, my third suggestion is that you do all you can to expose and end the voter suppression efforts of your party all of which masquerade as good-faith measures to end "widespread voter fraud." You could start by dismantling the commission you presently co-chair, after you have acted on my first and second suggestions and whatever further measures Democrats and Republicans together agree would best serve the democratic process. Thank you for your attention.

The concern of the people re: voting is the right wing's effort to throw up as many roadblocks as possible, to prevent likely opposition voters from voting. Not some phony, non-existent voter fraud concocted by the Right as an excuse for silly commissions like yours. You have an unsavory reputation for raising this phony issue over and over, ignoring the fact that there are no legitimate studies proving your argument. You are simply attempting to legitimize a sorry attempt to further restrict voting rights. To the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity,

I'm a registered Republican voter from Rapid City, SD and I have supported President Trump from the day he announced his candidacy. There is ample evidence to suggest that voting fraud occurred in the November 2016 election and in fact occurs in every election. The real question is to what extent it occurs and what principalities and powers are behind the voting fraud.

I am very disappointed and find it unacceptable that the South Dakota Secretary of State (Republican Shantel Krebs) is refusing to share ANY voter data with the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity (PACEI).

Along those same lines I called and spoke to someone named Rachel in the SDSOS Elections office this morning (7/5/17), below is our conversation. NOTE: 7/5/17 was the first morning the SDSOS office was open since the press release occurred at the end of the day Friday (6/30/17) – in other words the SDSOS office was closed at the time of the press release and remained closed for four days – trying to avoid SD voters I presume.

I asked several questions, I'm paraphrasing some of the answers for clarity sake, the relevant Q&A is below:

Q1: I'm very disappointed the SDSOS is not sharing voter data with the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity (PACEI). Why aren't you sharing Voter Data, I want my voter data shared?

A1: It is "against State Law" for the SDSOS to share voter data.

Q2: OK, but you currently share voter data with the SD Republican Party, SD Demonrat Party, Researchers and other Special Interest Groups, how is this different?

A2: The receiving parties just mentioned PAY for the voters data. In addition, PACEI is asking for full Date of Birth and the Last four digits of the SSN. These two items are data we don't distribute.

Q3: The Feds already have all the SSN's so that answer is irrelevant.

A3: No response.

Q4: How many systematic Election Audits have been conducted by the SDSOS office over the last 10 years.

A4: Answer wasn't clear – it sounded like none.

Q4: How many prosecutions of voter fraud by the SDSOS office have occurred in the last 10 years.

A4: None. We haven't had voting fraud in SD.

Q5: "You haven't had voting fraud in SD" because you haven't looked for it. It is almost a certainty that voting fraud occurs in each and every election in SD. In fact I know of two individuals who have witnessed voting fraud in SD.

A5: No response.

Q6: Do we have Dead people voting in SD elections? How about Felons voting? What about individuals who are not US Citizens like Dugaard's Muslim Refugees? Are the Demonrats voting multiple times in SD Elections?

A6: Answer was No to each question.

Q7: What is the SDSOS office doing to maintain the integrity of elections in SD?

A7: No answer.

My answer, nothing. Tell Ms. Krebs that there will be plenty of SD Republicans voting against her in the next election.

Sincerely,

Christopher B. Green, P.E., LEED AP

Krebs won't share South Dakota voter data with Trump panel

Posted: Fri 3 02 PM, Jun 30, 2017

PIERRE, S.D. (AP)—A spokesman for South Dakota Secretary of state Shantel Krebs says she won't share voter information with President Donald Trump's commission that's investigating alleged voter fraud in the 2016 elections.

The Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity on Wednesday gave secretaries of state about two weeks to provide about a dozen points of data. That request includes names, party affiliations, addresses and voting histories of all voters. It also includes birth dates, the last four digits of voters' Social Security numbers and any information about felony convictions and military status.

Krebs spokesman Jason Williams said in an email to The Associated Press on Friday she won't share the requested data with the commission.

Krebs is a Republican. Several Democratic secretaries of state have said they'll refuse to share the data.

Dear Mr. Vice Chair

As you are seeking input on the subject of election integrity, please permit me to offer some.

1. There is something wrong when year after year the majority winner in our elections does not become president. The Electoral College is subverting the will of the people and those that participate in it have great power then every day voters which is a HUGE problem.
2. True integrity could be restored to elections by reversing the Citizens United ruling.
3. Campaign Finance Reform would certainly bring about a more fair and just result in which candidates are on an even playing field and are NOT the mouth pieces of which ever corporation gave them the biggest donation.
4. Full reinstatement of the Voting Rights Act would be helpful.
5. The huge problem of gerrymandering should be reviewed.
6. Candidates for President should have to pass a basic exam on American policy and history. Nothing more difficult than American History advanced placement at high school.
7. Due process for removing people from the voting rolls.
8. No more voter suppression - more voter registration!
9. Term limits and strict limitations on the revolving door in Washington DC.

The good news is that the American people have never been more engaged and watchful than they are today. I'm sure you'll do the right thing.

Thanks in advance for you attention.

I am an Idaho voter. I am DEEPLY concerned and offended by your "study" of the integrity of our voting systems. Your letter to the Secretaries of State indicate that the information requested by you will be made public. Are you kidding me?

You are requesting information that is not part of (nor should it be) public records such as the last four digits of our social security numbers from which our full number can be calculated. How many times are we told not to give out our social security number? All the time. Why would you want to make that public? The same goes for my birthday. It puts the security of my personal identity at risk. I have enough problems with having credit card numbers stolen when I slide a card at the gas pump. These things are NOT supposed to be public records.

I will use Trump's term "WITCH HUNT" for this "study". Trump legitimately lost the popular vote and his fragile ego can't handle that. It is my belief that this is a tactic that the Trump administration will use to push for MORE voter suppression and it is WRONG!!! It will be used as Kobach did in Kansas (and as other states have done) to purge the voter rolls of legitimate voters because lots of people have similar names. Voters were not notified of the purge and, when they showed up to vote, were not allowed to vote despite having been legitimately registered to vote during previous elections.

Constitutionally, it is the role of the States to manage elections NOT the federal government.

The more qualified registered voters the country has and the more voters who vote, the more democratic our republic will be. Our country should be about inclusion NOT exclusion of ALL citizens in the voting process regardless of their ethnic, racial, or religious backgrounds. That is what makes this country great right "NOW" not "again".

As a voter, my confidence in our election process is undermined by:

- A president who frequently expresses his distaste for bleeding women but has yet to express his opposition to Russian interference in American elections
- Massive purges of voter registration rolls without due process
- Legislators who craft gerrymandered redistricting maps enabling politicians to choose their voters rather than the reverse
- The Supreme Court's decision in Shelby County v Holder, gutting the protections of the Voting Rights Act under the obviously false rationale that America is today a post-racial society
- Voter suppression efforts targeted at voters of color, the working poor, and students
- Antiquated voting systems vulnerable to state-sponsored tampering and conveniently producing no auditable paper trails
- A Federal Elections Commission - our democracy's watchdog - that is toothless by design
- The Supreme Court's decision in Citizens United v FEC, granting the wealthy few a louder voice in political campaigns than all other citizens combined
- An antiquated Electoral College system that enables minority rule
- An advisory committee on election integrity led by a notorious champion of voter suppression

You might wish to review:

The president has continued to claim voter fraud was a problem in the 2016 election. But a look at the facts makes clear fraud is vanishingly rare, and does not happen on a scale even close to that necessary to “rig” an election.

January 31, 2017

Sensationalist claims have circulated this election season about the extent of voter fraud, with some politicians going so far as to tell voters to fear that this November’s election will be “rigged.” Because electoral integrity is one of the elements necessary to making America the greatest democracy in the world, claims like this garner media attention, and frighten and concern voters. But putting rhetoric aside to look at the facts makes clear that fraud by voters at the polls is vanishingly rare, and does not happen on a scale even close to that necessary to “rig” an election.

Studies Agree: Impersonation Fraud by Voters Very Rarely Happens

- The Brennan Center’s seminal report on this issue, The Truth About Voter Fraud, found that most reported incidents of voter fraud are actually traceable to other sources, such as clerical errors or bad data matching practices. The report reviewed elections that had been meticulously studied for voter fraud, and found incident rates between 0.0003 percent and 0.0025 percent. Given this tiny incident rate for voter impersonation fraud, it is more likely, the report noted, that an American “will be struck by lightning than that he will impersonate another voter at the polls.”
- A study published by a Columbia University political scientist tracked incidence rates for voter fraud for two years, and found that the rare fraud that was reported generally could be traced to “false claims by the loser of a close race, mischief and administrative or voter error.”
- A 2017 analysis published in The Washington Post concluded that there is no evidence to support Trump’s claim that Massachusetts residents were bused into New Hampshire to vote.
- A comprehensive 2014 study published in The Washington Post found 31 credible instances of impersonation fraud from 2000 to 2014, out of more than 1 billion ballots cast. Even this tiny number is likely inflated, as the study’s author counted not just prosecutions or convictions, but any and all credible claims.
- Two studies done at Arizona State University, one in 2012 and another in 2016, found similarly negligible rates of impersonation fraud. The project found 10 cases of voter impersonation fraud nationwide from 2000-2012. The follow-up study, which looked for fraud specifically in states where politicians have argued that fraud is a pernicious problem, found zero successful prosecutions for impersonation fraud in five states from 2012-2016.

- A review of the 2016 election found four documented cases of voter fraud.
- Research into the 2016 election found no evidence of widespread voter fraud.
- A 2016 working paper concluded that the upper limit on double voting in the 2012 election was 0.02%. The paper noted that the incident rate was likely much lower, given audits conducted by the researchers showed that “many, if not all, of these apparent double votes could be a result of measurement error.”
- A 2014 paper concluded that “the likely percent of non-citizen voters in recent US elections is 0.”
- A 2014 nationwide study found “no evidence of widespread impersonation fraud” in the 2012 election.
- A 2014 study that examined impersonation fraud both at the polls and by mail ballot found zero instances in the jurisdictions studied.
- A 2014 study by the non-partisan Government Accountability Office, which reflected a literature review of the existing research on voter fraud, noted that the studies consistently found “few instances of in-person voter fraud.”
- While writing a 2012 book, a researcher went back 30 years to try to find an example of voter impersonation fraud determining the outcome of an election, but was unable to find even one.
- A 2012 study exhaustively pulled records from every state for all alleged election fraud, and found the overall fraud rate to be “infinitesimal” and impersonation fraud by voters at the polls to be the rarest fraud of all: only 10 cases alleged in 12 years. The same study found only 56 alleged cases of non-citizen voting, in 12 years.
- A 2012 assessment of Georgia’s 2006 election found “no evidence that election fraud was committed under the auspices of deceased registrants.”
- A 2011 study by the Republican National Lawyers Association found that, between 2000 and 2010, 21 states had 1 or 0 convictions for voter fraud or other kinds of voting irregularities.
- A 2010 book cataloging reported incidents of voter fraud concluded that nearly all allegations turned out to be clerical errors or mistakes, not fraud.
- A 2009 analysis examined 12 states and found that fraud by voters was “very rare,” and also concluded that many of the cases that garnered media attention were ultimately unsubstantiated upon further review.
- Additional research on noncitizen voting can be found here: <http://www.brennancenter.org/analysis/analysis-noncitizen-voting-vanishingly-rare>.
- Additional resources can be found here: <https://www.brennancenter.org/analysis/analysis-and-reports>.

Courts Agree: Fraud by Voters at the Polls is Nearly Non-Existent

- The Fifth Circuit, in an opinion finding that Texas’s strict photo ID law is racially discriminatory, noted that there were “only two convictions for in-person voter impersonation fraud out of 20 million votes cast in the decade” before Texas passed its law.

- In its opinion striking down North Carolina's omnibus restrictive election law — which included a voter ID requirement — as purposefully racially discriminatory, the Fourth Circuit noted that the state “failed to identify even a single individual who has ever been charged with committing in-person voter fraud in North Carolina.”
- A federal trial court in Wisconsin reviewing that state's strict photo ID law found “that impersonation fraud — the type of fraud that voter ID is designed to prevent — is extremely rare” and “a truly isolated phenomenon that has not posed a significant threat to the integrity of Wisconsin's elections.”
- Even the Supreme Court, in its opinion in Crawford upholding Indiana's voter ID law, noted that the record in the case “contains no evidence of any [in-person voter impersonation] fraud actually occurring in Indiana at any time in its history.” Two of the jurists who weighed in on that case at the time — Republican-appointed former Supreme Court Justice John Paul Stevens and conservative appellate court Judge Richard Posner — have since announced they regret their votes in favor of the law, with Judge Posner noting that strict photo ID laws are “now widely regarded as a means of voter suppression rather than of fraud prevention.”

Government Investigations Agree: Voter Fraud Is Rare

- Kansas Secretary of State Kris Kobach, a longtime proponent of voter suppression efforts, argued before state lawmakers that his office needed special power to prosecute voter fraud, because he knew of 100 such cases in his state. After being granted these powers, he has brought six such cases, of which only four have been successful. The secretary has also testified about his review of 84 million votes cast in 22 states, which yielded 14 instances of fraud referred for prosecution, which amounts to a 0.00000017 percent fraud rate.
- Texas lawmakers purported to pass its strict photo ID law to protect against voter fraud. Yet the chief law enforcement official in the state responsible for such prosecutions knew of only one conviction and one guilty plea that involved in-person voter fraud in all Texas elections from 2002 through 2014.
- A specialized United States Department of Justice unit formed with the goal of finding instances of federal election fraud examined the 2002 and 2004 federal elections, and were able to prove that 0.00000013 percent of ballots cast were fraudulent. There was no evidence that any of these incidents involved in-person impersonation fraud. Over a five year period, they found “no concerted effort to tilt the election.”
- An investigation in Colorado, in which the Secretary of State alleged 100 cases of voter fraud, yielded one conviction.
- In Maine, an investigation into 200 college students revealed no evidence of fraud. Shortly thereafter, an Elections Commission appointed by a Republican secretary of state found “there is little or no history in Maine of voter impersonation or identification fraud.”
- In Florida, a criminal investigation into nine individuals who allegedly committed absentee ballot fraud led to all criminal charges being dismissed against all voters.
- In 2012, Florida Governor Rick Scott initiated an effort to remove non-citizen registrants from the state's rolls. The state's list of 182,000 alleged non-citizen registrants quickly dwindled to 198. Even this amended list contained many false positives, such as a WWII veteran born in Brooklyn. In the end, only 85 non-citizen registrants were identified and only one was convicted of fraud, out of a total of 12 million registered voters.

- In Iowa, a multi-year investigation into fraud led to just 27 prosecutions out of 1.6 million ballots cast. In 2014 the state issued a report on the investigation citing only six prosecutions.
- In Wisconsin, a task force charged 20 individuals with election crimes. The majority charged were individuals with prior criminal convictions, who are often caught up by confusing laws regarding restoration of their voting rights.

The verdict is in from every corner that voter fraud is sufficiently rare that it simply could not and does not happen at the rate even approaching that which would be required to “rig” an election. Electoral integrity is key to our democracy, and politicians who genuinely care about protecting our elections should focus not on phantom fraud concerns, but on those abuses that actually threaten election security.

As historians and election experts have catalogued, there is a long history in this country of racially suppressive voting measures — including poll taxes and all-white primaries — put in place under the guise of stopping voter fraud that wasn't actually occurring in the first place. The surest way toward voting that is truly free, fair, and accessible is to know the facts in the face of such rhetoric.

To whom it may concern,

Here is a copy of a letter I recently mailed. I would draw your attention to an issue that the Commission seems not to have focused on: that of the inordinate and unwarranted influence of money in elections.

Does the Commission's charge include an inquiry into the use of "money in politics?" And, if not, can the Commission apply to have its mission extended to focus on that issue, because it is clearly of primary importance?

The courtesy of your reply is awaited.

Brattleboro VT 05302
July 2, 2017

Jim Condos
State of Vermont
Secretary of State
128 State Street
Montpelier VT 05633-1101

Dear Secretary Condos,

Should my statement assist you with respect to the records request by the Presidential Advisory Commission on Election Integrity, I affirm:

that I do not give my permission for the disclosure of any of my personally identifying information, including but not limited to Social Security number, or parts thereof, Driver's License number or date of birth.

I wholeheartedly agree with your analysis that if this Commission were truly interested in election integrity, it would focus on the list of issues you outlined including foreign interference, partisan gerrymandering and providing expanded early voting opportunities, among others. One item of importance not on that list is the inordinate and unwarranted influence of money in elections.

Having observed the last few elections, I would affirm that underparticipation in voting is our major problem.

The focus that this Commission has placed on crosschecking votes reminds of a story from another era:

There's a section in William Kennedy's book O Albany (1985) in which he relates that folks who used to vote in the old firehouses that had circular staircases thought that "poll watchers" positioned themselves on high to see how folks voted. Whether that was true or not was not the issue; that people believed it was the point.

Thank you for your efforts to maintain election integrity.

Sincerely,

Robert A. Oeser

I read that you are looking for input regarding what undermines Americans' confidence in elections. For me, it's two things: gerrymandering and voter suppression laws (ID requirements, limiting early and same-day voting, etc.)

Concern about voter fraud is a smokescreen to push a radical agenda that limits voting by minorities, older poor people, students and young people.

The more public records reside on one site (e.g., your office), the more vulnerable individuals are to hacking and identity theft. Maybe that's what you want.

We know you and Dumb Donny Dump want only white male Republican racists to have the right to vote. Compiling nationwide voting records will allow you to winnow the herd. You know what that means, don't you, Farm Boy? Dumb Donny already put a notch in his fat-man belt by eroding Internet privacy (and probably profiting from the maneuver). Hitler did the same thing by requiring the Jews to register and wear armbands. We see how that all worked out for both the dictators and the wearers.

One Dump official is no match for a bunch of pissed-off Secretaries of State who must answer to their citizens. You may have to answer only to Donny but he's no match for any six-year old with an IQ above 40 so grow a pair and quit your nothing burger job while you have a few shreds of credibility in Kansas (and nowhere else!).

Save what's left of your pathetic (Dump's word) career and get out now. How 200 million registered voters chose is not your business or the business of Dumb Donny, particularly when the intent is voter suppression. The statistics don't back you up your fraud claims and neither does the American public. Why don't you find some honorable job, like washing dishes in a diner, instead of trying to con the entire American public upon orders of the biggest con in the Western World.

I am not a Secretary of State but I am an American citizen and I have many concerns about the Electoral Integrity Commission. Among them:

We have a president who frequently expresses his distaste for bleeding women but has yet to express his opposition to Russian interference in American elections;

There have been massive purges of voter registration rolls without due process;

Legislators who craft gerrymandered redistricting maps enabling politicians to choose their voters rather than the reverse;

The Supreme Court's decision in Shelby County v Holder, gutting the protections of the Voting Rights Act under the obviously false rationale that America is today a post-racial society;

Voter suppression efforts targeted at voters of color, the working poor, and students;

Antiquated voting systems vulnerable to state-sponsored tampering and conveniently producing no auditable paper trails;

A Federal Elections Commission - our democracy's watchdog - that is toothless by design;

The Supreme Court's decision in Citizens United v FEC, granting the wealthy few a louder voice in political campaigns than all other citizens combined;

An antiquated Electoral College system that enables minority rule;

An advisory committee on election integrity led by a notorious champion of voter suppression.

If the Commission is interested in pursuing the above then I say go to it, but the charges of extensive voter fraud have no basis in reality and the request for private voter information is offensive and I am happy that my SoS said NO!

Subject: USDC Court ruling - The election was a fraud - because of the court ruling in USDC SF 14-CV-03629
Date: Saturday, July 8, 2017 12:15:09 PM

Sorry, but we warned both the Judge and the Governor of the State of California what the effect of the ruling in the 14-CV-03629/WHA matter was. It legally invalidated the election because "all of the states illegally use IP from the US6370629 suite of patents which are controlled fully by the clauses of the Settlement for US6370629".

Further, the Obama Administration covered this same fraud up because it impacts the legal ability to commingle funds illegally obtained in any of these foreign nations which are obtained from the sale of US6370629 based products, software, and online services: AU54015/99, CA2287596, EU0997808A3, BR9904979A, ZA9906799, JP2000-163379, KO2000-0035093.

Today this single fraud controls not only the ability to operate the US Government, but those others as well. In fact Commissioner Vergaster hit Apple for 14B Eu in taxes to continue protecting them from the antitrust fraud they are direct parties to in their offshoring money obtained from illegal sales therein. Three weeks after she acknowledged receipt of the cease-and-desist the counterfeiting actions - the EU hits Apple for 14B Eu in fraud-payments. That is the key hammer against the EU itself before the Hague. That they agreed Apple was breaking the law and tried to strong-arm them for payments to continue protecting them.

The fun part is US IRS is also protecting them. That is why I am suing you folks again - on my way to the Hague. The lawsuit is before Court of Federal Claims, 2017-CV-00901 and it claims a number of things including IRS and US DOJ and the Courts themselves have refused to review their uses of stolen property.

That said - please also realize you - USG - have no legal method of giving me relief from the criminal fraud done between Canada and the EU, or Australia and Japan, or Australia and South Africa, or South Africa and Brazil. All of those frauds documented by these - their very existence PROVES THE CRIMINAL FRAUDS HAPPENED - AU54015/99, CA2287596, EU0997808A3, BR9904979A, ZA9906799, JP2000-163379, KO2000-0035093.

That said - my next steps are that someone owes me several billion in direct damages and several hundred billion in offshoring damages. In addition IRS has blocked my participation in BOUNTY program against Microsoft, Apple, Facebook, Google and two others meaning they - the IRS as run by Secretary Mnuchin, are committing yet another crime.

Your problem simply is that when this matter gets to the Hague/ICC they will have no choice but to rule the fraud 'made it legally impossible to vote in the US some time in the mid 2003- to 2005 timeframe' and everything since then is a lie.

If your attorney's want to talk, or VP Pence or POTUS staff want to understand what we are saying in our Law Suit - its pretty simple. No one can use US6370629 in the US outside of the California Law restrictions which are automatic and which are the hamstring both parties agreed to in the beginning to make those contracts so toxic they had to be renegotiated. Today that renegotiation is going to cost tens or hundreds of billions in direct and probably several hundred billion in US Taxfraud losses.

Have a nice weekend, and send the Boss my best

I served in the US Air Force from March, 1956 through December, 1958. When I received my commission as a 2nd Lt. in 1955, I took the oath to protect and defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and DOMESTIC. That oath is still in effect, so I am speaking out to oppose your voter suppression commission.

We did have massive voter fraud here in Miami-Dade County, Florida, some years ago. The fraud was with absentee ballots, committed by Republicans, resulting in an election's results being thrown out by a judge. A new election had to be held. We made some serious changes to our procedures locally to prevent this from happening again.

It is obvious that your commission will be using this information, especially voting history, to target people who are likely to vote Democratic, and use various, well-known techniques to suppress as many of their votes as possible. I am a Teddy Roosevelt Republican. He would never condone such un-American behavior.

Based on everything I have read and heard from reputable sources, the voter "fraud" the president is complaining about is almost nonexistent. It's really pathetic that he can't accept that almost 3 million more people voted for Mrs. Clinton than him, plus about 2 million others who voted for third party and independent candidates. This is a waste of money and just another distraction.

I appreciate you taking the time to solicit the views of Americans regarding the request for private voter information from all 50 states Attorneys General.

I understand that you were appointed to oversee the possibility of illegal votes in the presidential election despite no evidence. However, we do know that our election process was tested by the Russian government and are anxious to see our processes upheld and strengthened. That will not happen if time and money are spent chasing down an illegal voting problem that doesn't exist. Not to mention the very ill-advised idea of consolidating voter information from all 50 states in one database.

I urge you to work with states to strengthen the voting process. And we will be very vigilant to ensure that this does NOT turn into an excuse to purge voter rolls.

Now we have at least two people, you and P. Trump. Just because P. Trumps' ego can't stand losing the popular vote, it doesn't mean the whole country should suffer. Time and time again the elections have been investigated and it has been found there is no evidence of big time fraud. Now you want to pull in everybodys voting info. I for one, if Calif. decides to comply in the future will maybe withdraw my info , if possible, because I do not wish to have conspiracy inclined people to have the info.
